

Setting the Stage

Facilitated Session

Presented by Dr. Erin Kelly

January 2025

Overview

- Introduction
- Overview of the Changing Housing Landscape
- Partnerships
- Current Housing Landscape
- Encouraging Collaboration
- Conclusion

Introduction

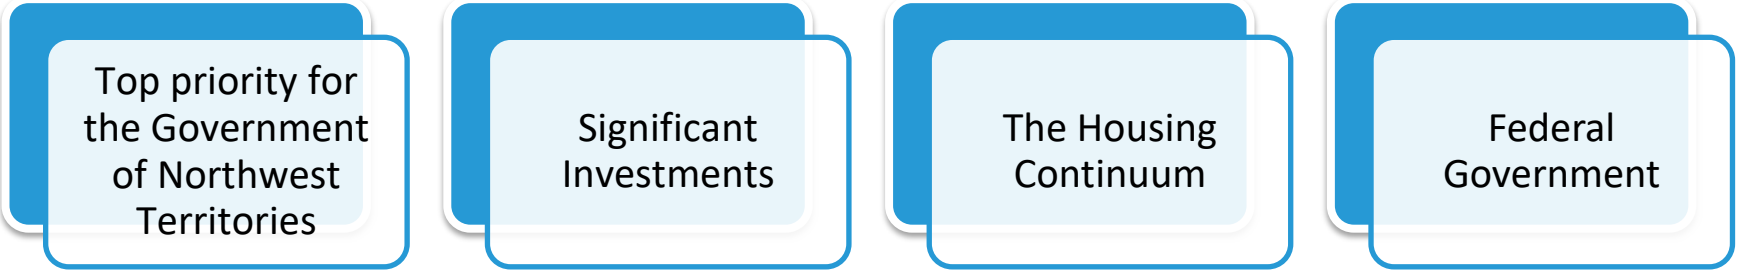

Changing Housing Landscape

- The housing landscape in the Northwest Territories has evolved significantly.
- From the establishment of Housing Authorities in the 1970's to the comprehensive renewal and rebranding of Housing NWT in 2022, we have seen substantial progress and adaptation to meet the changing needs of our residents.

Partnerships

- Addressing the housing crisis in the NWT requires a collaborative effort. No single entity can solve this problem alone.
- By working together— Indigenous, community, territorial and federal governments, NGOs and others - can pool our resources, share our expertise, and develop comprehensive solutions that are sustainable and impactful.

Current Housing Landscape

Top priority for the Government of Northwest Territories

Significant Investments

The Housing
Continuum

Federal Government

Encouraging Collaboration

Maintain existing and build strong new relationships while continuing to foster collaboration.

Reflect on our successes and find new ways to address the challenges ahead of us.

By working together, we can create a more effective and responsive housing system that meets the needs of all NWT residents.

Conclusion

Haj

Qujannamiik

Mahsi

Masi

Merci

Quyanainni

Máhsi

Quana

kinanāskomitin

Mársi

Thank you